Conflict Calendar Due 11/6 2:40 pm- On our website there is a Conflict Calendar (google sheet). Make a copy. Rename it to your Last Name, First Name On this schedule, list all conflicts you have, providing specific times. If you are involved in another production, please let us know (even if it does not conflict). Provide all conflicts pertaining to that show, as we must take this into consideration for casting. Attach your Google Sheet Conflict Calendar to your Wizard of OZ Audition Form.

The director reserves the right to make changes to the rehearsal schedule where necessary.

Performing in a musical such as this can be one of the highlights of your time in high school. For this to be possible, it is imperative that all participants are cooperative at all times with the directors and stage-managers, respectful of fellow company members, and generally display a high level of maturity and self-discipline. Those who do not will risk removal from the company.

Musical Theatre Auditions

How to Do it Right!!

There are so many times that we have been sitting in an audition and thought, "If they only..." With the help of the Musical Directing Staff, we have compiled some notes on what you need to take into consideration the next time you attend a dance/theatre/vocal audition for college, for a musical theatre role, for a dance company or even an interview for your next job.

TAKE NOTE!

In General:

- Always know what you are auditioning for and adjust accordingly.
- Is it a chorus or solo part?
- Are you clear on the time and financial commitment?
- Be prepared (when you are asked to prepare something before auditions)

Attire: How you look says a lot about who you are.

- Dress to be remembered in a positive light
- Hair choice - always out of your face! Ballet or Classical – bun normally suggested. Everything else – ponytail with bangs out of your face
- Don't pick or adjust your clothing in the view of your Auditors
- Bring all types of shoes – always be prepared for anything (paws, ballet, tap, jazz, character heels – NO socks)
- Accessories – don't wear them or bring them!
- Place your audition # at your shoulder or high chest area
- If the audition runs multiple days – consider a "color" theme to help remind the evaluators who you are
- Don't be obnoxious with color or make-up choices
- No baggy clothing

Just the way it goes:

- You are being watched and evaluated from the moment your Auditors see you – first day of class, the minute you walk in the door for the audition workshop, when you are sitting and waiting outside the auditions. Treat EVERYONE with respect (fellow dancers/singers/actors, the person that signed you in at the door, etc)
- Roles can be determined by your physical appearance (not in public school necessarily but in the professional world of musical theatre / theatre / Disney, etc.).
- It's not always the BEST dance/singer/actor who gets the job. It's the one that takes notes. Pay attention to details.

Etiquette: How to act

- Genuine smile / pleasantness / sincere
- STAY OFF OF YOUR PHONE
- Pay attention!
- Don't talk
- LISTEN to directions!!
- Raise hand in class / workshop for questions
- Ask only questions that are truly important to everyone involved (save "individual" questions for break time)
- Never sit! (unless asked to do so)
- Don't talk
- Always say "thank you" at the end of class or as you walk out of the audition to the teacher, accompanist and director
- If a "class" setting – pay attention to EVERY correction, even if it's not to you and "mark it" on the sidelines (in Ballet – do NOT mark on sidelines)
- Don't talk
- STAY OFF OF YOUR PHONE

Vocal: How to show off that voice

- Be sure you have warmed-up prior to the audition. Don't go in cold.
- Be prepared to sing in different "voices." This shows flexibility and may help you land the role if you match what the director envisioned for this character.
- Never say, "I'm not feeling well... I'm getting over a cold... My voice doesn't sound right today..." These are perceived as code for, "I don't think I'm good enough so I'll make an excuse." Your voice on the day of the audition is the only thing that matters to a director.
- Do not sacrifice tone for volume. Shouting isn't good, even if it's powerful.
- If you cannot read music, don't fret. Some directors will look past this if you are a quick learner and have a great voice. You simply must show that you're willing to work harder.

Performance: How to shine

- Show - "I LOVE THIS" and "PICK ME!!!" through your body and face
- Be prepared to be moved into different groups, "called back" to perform again, dance/sing alone, reverse the combination ("other side")
- If you mess up – don't let anyone know – keep going – a quick recovery shows professionalism
- Interact with those you are dancing with during your performance and while you are practicing – refrain from acting like a "show-off"
- Be aware of your dance space – don't run into other dancers and if you get close – don't share the "scared face" but use it as an opportunity to interact / acknowledge
- If you drop a prop – work the "drop" it into the choreography
- Always finish strong
- If you are auditioning for a story-based show – know the history, characters, story, etc. prior to the audition workshop

LEAVE A LASTING, POSITIVE IMPRESSION!!

Parent/Student Meeting

There will be a Parent/Student meeting on November 27 at 7:00 p.m. in the Klein Cain Auditorium. If your child is a member of the Wizard of OZ Company (Cast or Crew) we require that at least one parent or guardian be at this meeting.
